New President at Precision Door

In November 2008, Bill Walden replaced Danny Edwards as president of Precision Door Service, based in Titusville, Fla. Precision Door Service is a franchiser with more than 70 locations across the United States.

Walden began working at Precision Door's corporate office in September 2006 as corporate operations director. He was promoted to vice president of operations in January 2007 and then to president in November 2008 after the departure of Edwards.

Walden graduated from the University of Central Florida with a BSBA in operations management in 1992. Prior to joining Precision, he worked for Bob Steele Chevrolet in Cocoa, Fla. ■

Raynor Vice President Retires

In April, Bill Kendall, Raynor vice president of product engineering, retired after 33 years of service. Kendall began his career at Raynor in 1976 when he joined a team of only four engineers. In 1977, Kendall was the product designer for the company's first commercial operator.

In 1980, he was promoted to engineering supervisor and was a key member of the design team that produced the Decade residential garage door. Kendall was promoted to the management team as director of engineering in 1981. In 1984, he was promoted to vice president of product engineering.

Kendall was also involved in several key product innovations, including the first Raynor-manufactured residential opener, the rolling steel door, the 3"-thick TriCore, and the ShowCase, Innovations, and BuildMark residential doors.

He authored several patents for Raynor products including TriCore, Prisma, and Raynor Innovation Series. ■
