

C.H.I. appoints new CEO

On Nov. 14, C.H.I. Overhead Doors appointed Dave Bangert as chief executive officer, succeeding Tim Miller.

Most recently, Bangert served as president, North America and Europe Commercial, for KaVo in the Danaher Corporation, a global manufacturer of industrial and commercial products and services. He previously held various roles within the KaVo Kerr Group and KPMG. A graduate of Notre Dame, he is a CPA and holds an MBA from Harvard Business School.

"I am excited to join the C.H.I. team and work together with them to build upon C.H.I.'s tremendous history of growth, quality, and customer service excellence," said Mr. Bangert.

Tim Miller had been CEO since September 2015, when Jim Overholt retired. Miller had been marketing manager since 1999, while Overholt had been CEO since 2002.

KKR, a global investment firm, has owned C.H.I. since June 2015. ■

Entrematic names two vice presidents

In August, Entrematic announced that Althea Hensley had joined the company as vice president of people in Lawrence, Kan. Prior to coming to Entrematic, Hensley was senior vice president and human resources business partner for MasterCard Worldwide. She also previously served as vice president of human resources for Alto U.S.

She is a 1993 graduate of Webster University, where she studied business administration. Hensley received a master's degree in human resource management from Lindenwood University in 2012.

In November, Entrematic announced that John Romero had joined the company as vice president of production, also in Lawrence. Romero is responsible for the management and control of Amarr garage door

Prior to joining Entrematic, he was manufacturing director of Goodyear Tire & Rubber in Georgia. During his 26-year career at Goodyear, he worked in numerous locations throughout the U.S. A native of New Mexico, Romero is a graduate of Cameron University in Oklahoma with a Bachelor of Science degree in technology and design drafting.

ATL names HR director

In November, Arrow Tru-Line announced that Jill Jacoby had been named human resources director for its facilities in Archbold and Bryan, Ohio; Dallas; Las Vegas; and Collier, Ontario. A member of the Society for Human Resource Management, Jacoby previously worked as the human resources manager at Paragon Metals.

She earned a bachelor's degree in organizational management from Bluffton University and certification in lean manufacturing from the University of Michigan. Active in her community, she is president of the Edon Northwest Academic Boosters and has served on the Business Management Advisory Committee for Northwest Community College.

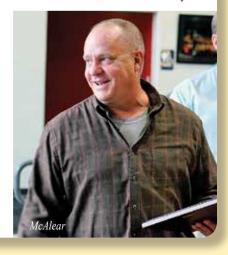

Local mayor proclaims "Mike McAlear Day"

In November, Service Spring CEO Mike McAlear received a proclamation from Richard H. Carr, mayor of Maumee, Ohio, declaring McAlear's birthday, November 12, 2016, as Mike McAlear Day.

McAlear was honored for his connection to the local business community and his involvement with charities and nonprofit organizations such as the Red Cross of Greater Toledo, Big Brothers/Big Sisters, Rotary Club, and the East Toledo Family Center.

Along with local involvement, he has also traveled to Cambodia, Asia, and Honduras on mission trips to help those in need. Service Spring observed Mike McAlear Day with refreshments at its Ohio and California locations.

Laher

Former CODA president retires at Multi Sales

In January, Bob Laher will retire from Multi Sales after 36 years of service in support, sales, warehousing, purchasing, and management. Laher served on the CODA board for six years and was president from 2001 to 2002.

Multi Sales is scheduling a lunch at its La Palma, Calif., location in honor of Bob's retirement. To participate, contact marketing@multisalesinc.com.

Sommer announces new sales manager for West Coast

In October, Sommer announced the addition of Andy Guzman as their new West Coast Regional Sales Manager. Guzman will focus on marketing Sommer products to dealers throughout the West Coast.

Guzman has been in the garage and access control industry for seven years, working in sales management with garage and gate distributors in California.

Fehr adds account manager

In October, David Alterio joined Fehr Bros. as a new account manager to focus on growing and managing business relationships with garage door dealers across the country.

Alterio has more than 20 years of industrial sales background, with a focus on steel fabricated parts, assemblies, and raw materials. He has extensive experience with ISO standards and the implementation of quality control programs.

Janus hires industry veteran for new sales position

In October, Janus announced that Tony Albanese will lead its new commercial/ terminal sales initiative, focusing on commercial door sales throughout the Northeast and freight terminal sales nationwide.

Albanese is a 13-year veteran of the rolling sheet door industry, with 20+ years in the construction industry. Past management roles include project management, installation management of self-storage doors and hallway systems, and freight terminal sales and dealer sales.

